

(Courtesy translation)

Budapest, 2013

Distinguished European Geodetic Surveyors, Ladies and Gentlemen,

On behalf of the citizens of Budapest I greet you all on the occasion that the Hungarian capital city hosts the general assembly of The Council of European Geodetic Surveyors on 21-24 March 2013. The Municipality of the City of Budapest and myself gladly support every notable international and professional forum, which is held in our city.

We shape the medium-term city development concept of Budapest jointly and in cooperation with universities, the government, as well as professional and market actors. Maintaining and increasing competitiveness of our city is a strategic priority to us, just as you go for the same goal to achieve professional progress and recognition.

Appreciating the deep commitment of your organization towards the interests of this profession and the society, I wish you efficient days of discussion in the Hungarian capital city. May I request you to visit the unique cultural and natural heritage of our city during your stay, discover the sights and please feel at home. Get acquainted with our loveable city!

I wish you a successful meeting, with kind regards:

István Tarlós

